Appointed persons

Where an employer's assessment of first-aid needs identifies that a First Aider is not necessary, the minimum requirement on an employer is to appoint a person to take charge of the first-aid arrangements, including looking after equipment and facilities, and calling the emergency services when required. Arrangements should be made for an appointed person to be available to undertake these duties at all times when people are at work.

Course Outline

A minimum 2-hour programme for individuals who wish to gain knowledge of the first aid at work regulations, appointments and reporting procedures.

This course could be idea for the manager to provide suitable training in order to meet suitable first aid provisions within the companies Health and safety policy and to manage first aiders.

As someone responsible for First Aid needs within your organization, you should liaise with management and the First Aiders

- To ensure that the provision of First Aid is organised
- To ensure adequate First Aid kits are available
- To keep records and reports

Modules:
